This Protestant hymn was written by Daniel C. Roberts for the first centennial celebration in 1876. Daniel Roberts was an Episcopal minister who had served in an Ohio regiment during the Civil War. Originally sung to another melody, this piece was chosen as a hymn for the centennial celebration of the adoption of the Constitution, and set to a newly composed melody by a nationally known organist, George W. Warren. It is also known as the National Hymn and the Army Hymn. It is particularly known for its trumpet fanfares.
