This 14th Century melody is found in a manuscript at Leipzig University. It is thought that the words originate in this version in the 15th century with many changes over the years. In Babst's "Gesangbuch" of 1545 (the final hymn book of Martin) it is considered that the 3rd verse "O Patris caritas" is substituted for an earlier one and is possibly by Luther. One story that the original words were sung by angels to Henry Suso circa 1366 who danced with his angelic visitors. The melody various versions is published in many books through the centuries including "Piae Cantiones" of 1582.
