

BEATA VISCERA

Blessed flesh of the Virgin Mary, at whose breasts the king of eminent name, concealing, under altered guise, the force of divine nature, has sealed a pact of God and Man. O astonishing novelty and unaccustomed joy of a mother still pure after childbirth.

Pérotin(c.1220)

B e- a- ta vi- sce- ra Ma- ri- e vir- gi- nis cu- ius ad u- ber- a rex ma- gni no- mi- nis veste sub al- te- ra vim cel- ans numi- nis dicta- vit fed- er- a De- i et ho- mi- nis O mir- a no- vi- tas et no- vum gaudi- um ma- tris inte- gri- ta post- pu- erper- ri- um